

"THE CELL"

When first we read "The Cell"
Some of us weren't too sure about it,
But now it's such a part of us,
How will we live without it?

The nuns and girls were kept in line
By fearsome Mother Denis,
So ably played by June
With just the right amount of menace.

Poor Sister Leonora was
So timid, mild and meek,
In playing her so well
Our Janet showed she was not weak!

And troubled Sister Catherine,
With her mind on blood and gore,
It's no wonder at the end
That Sue collapsed upon the floor!

Then devious Sister Matthew –
She looked after Number One,
And poor Sister Gonzaga,
With her washing never done!

That Sister Veynard seemed to be
In trouble all the time,
And Concepta and Cecilia –
They were chatting all the time!

The naughty girls and Eileen
Kept the convent free from grime,
And when Briggs wasn't driving,
He rang bells most of the time!

Father Morris was a ladies' man,
I think it must be said,
But when he spoke we wondered –
Was he really Father Ted?

Thank you Richard, for your vision
In directing us so well.
And although we have enjoyed it,
We are now free from "The Cell"!
